Sweet Treats & Smart Talk Lecture Series

Indulge your mind and sweet tooth this spring during Celebration Lifelong Learning, Inc.'s Sweet Treats & Smart Talk Lecture Series! Lectures will take place on Tuesdays in April and May at 3:15pm in the Celebration Center room at Windsor.

You do not need to make a pre-reservation to attend.

See below for specific dates and topics!

April 14

New Orleans Pralines from Scratch

Lecturer - Tom Atkinson

Discover how to make melt in your mouth pecan pralines with authentic New Orleans ingredients, techniques, and a dash of live jazz. Enjoy the sights, sounds, and aromas as we cook together — jazz tunes playing, pralines simmering — and take home a complete recipe with step-by-step instructions. Along the way, you'll hear stories from the Crescent City's culture and taste the rich blend of Louisiana pecans, cane sugar, fresh milk, and creamy butter. Come stir up some sweetness — and let the jazz set the mood! As we say in New Orleans, "Laissez les bon temps rouler" - Let the Good Times Roll. See ya there, Cher!

April 21

Lessons From Quantico-Developing Your Personal Security Plan

Lecturer - John Chadwick

A candid discussion, led by Supervisory Special Agent Rob Chadwick, FBI (retired), regarding the unprecedented security environment in the United States and the associated personal security challenges they present.

April 28

Russian Glasnost in a Bygone Era: Leading a High School Band in Moscow

Lecturer - Nick White

In May 1991, the Nicolet High School Band of Wisconsin became the first American marching band to perform in the USSR Victory Day Parade, serving as the sole U.S. representative at a historic turning point. This is a concise retrospective combining archival tour footage with 2026 reflections from the now-grown participants, highlighting a rare and powerful example of youth cultural diplomacy through music.
